

Buy A Mobile Phone Number ((FULL))

That's right! Access to 69,979,519 phone numbers never before available in one location to search and purchase. Local, toll free, vanity, premium and easy dial numbers. And you have full access! We've done the hard work of navigating the carrier networks on the backend so you can find your custom number from one simple search. Don't settle for a random phone number from your service provider. NumberBarn is providing access to millions of numbers previously unavailable to the general public. We'll have to order, secure and move the number to our carrier first before you can move it out to yours. We've all heard the romantic lore of "same day" transfers. Yes, same day transfers do happen, but the truth is only wireless to wireless transfers will happen within 24 hours. And not because wireless carriers care more about their customers, but because the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) and the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission (CRTC) mandate it. We do our best, but NumberBarn is not a carrier. We are a service provider. We are subject to our vendor and carrier time frames. Most numbers will take 3 - 10 business days to activate. Porting to your new carrier will then take 3 - 7 business days to complete. Yes, you can transfer a landline number to a wireless carrier*. NumberBarn's numbers are classified as landline or "wireline". Landline and VoIP transfers can take a minimum of 3 business days all the way up to 20 business days to complete. Even if porting to a wireless carrier. This is true for all landline carriers, not just NumberBarn. Not to worry! The Pig and our entire team are here to get your number moved out of the barn and over to your new carrier. Port out timing depends on the carriers. They all tend to work at different speeds, have different policies and don't always play together nicely. It's our goal to get your number ported ASAP, even if it means you are leaving NumberBarn. Our team has seen it all before and is dedicated to making sure your port completes as quickly as possible. Yes! You will own this number. Under the FCC's "local number portability" (LNP) rules, you are legally able to keep your number when you move or change phone companies. You can transfer it to any phone service that will accept it. And once the number has left NumberBarn, you are no longer billed, bound or connected to our service in any way. NumberBarn has taken our years of experience and created systems and automation designed to shorten the porting timeline as much as possible. There can be some manual intervention needed, but our support team is the best in the biz. We'll work hard on your behalf to get your number ported, even if it means getting down in the mud. You can trade in your old, working phone or device for credit towards a new purchase with T-Mobile's Device Trade-in Program. It is not required that your trade-in device was purchased from T-Mobile. When you activate your T-Mobile account, you can apply that trade-in credit to your bill. To get started, go to Device Trade-In and follow the on-screen instructions. Yes, it is possible to keep the number you already have from another wireless or landline carrier. First, check if your existing number is eligible for transfer to T-Mobile. If it is, simply follow the on-screen instructions displayed during check-out to authorize the transfer. We'll do the rest. In rare circumstances, we are unable to transfer a number to our network. This is often because we don't have a transfer agreement with the original service provider. Be sure to keep your old phone and old account until your number is fully activated on your new account for seamless service. But a true vanity number is harder to dial because the caller has to hunt for the letters on the dial pad in order to know which digits to press. The other kind of number is what many people call an easy dial number - a number that has a pattern or repeating digits which make it both memorable and easy to dial on a keypad. At an extreme, the telephone number 1-888-888-8888 fits in this category. (Unfortunately it is taken.) These vanity phone numbers generally have superior recall value, depending on the word and its relevance to the business. But easy dial numbers are much easier to, well, dial, because of the repeating digits, especially at the end of the phone number. They also have excellent recall value compared to a set of random digits. The reason is very simple. The easier the phone number is to remember and/or dial, the easier you are making it for your customers or clients to call you. And since calling is still the #1 way people reach a company about their product or service, the more important it is to have a vanity number and/or easy dial phone number. There are other reasons to have such a vanity number working for your businesses, such as branding support, but it ultimately comes down to making it easier for your customers or clients to call you in order to drive up revenue!
